

Fringe Instructions

After the embroidery design is complete, do not remove from hoop (I find it much easier to cut the bobbin thread if the design is left in the hoop).

On the back side, cut the bobbin thread of the long satin stitches. I use a small seam ripper.

Some Designs have multiple layers of fringe. When cutting the bobbin thread make sure you cut the last layer that you stitched first, then the next layer and the next until you have cut them all.

From the front side, gently pull the fringe to the front of the design.

You may leave the fringe as loops or you may trim the ends to your liking. If you trim the fringe it will get fuzzy (recommended for the pom poms) when washed. I suggest trimming the loops if the design is for a small child.
